INTRODUCTION

A Vocabulary Companion to Practical English 2 is a follow-up compilation of lexical exercises pertaining to topics covered by University of Łódź students at the Faculty of English Philology who participate in the Practical English course at the MA level. Similarly to A Vocabulary Companion to Practical English 1, this volume includes a selection of lexical exercises aimed at providing the extra practice that would help students enrich their knowledge of the English vocabulary.

The exercises in higher-level vocabulary are built around the following topics: Health and Fitness, Politeness, Sociobiology, Gender Issues, and Happiness. They cover numerous collocations, fixed phrases, idiomatic expressions, prepositional phrases, and phrasal verbs.

This book, like its first part, has been written primarily as an in-class workbook but constitutes an equally valuable resource for self-study that students will, hopefully, find useful for further practice.

FOLLOW-UP DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

Complete the following questions with missing words. Next, discuss them with a partner supporting your answers with ARGUMENTS, AN EXPLANATION and/or EXAMPLES.

- Advice on how to be a perfect employee, mother, boyfriend, housewife, etc. clearly proliferates in the media. Do you think such information motivates people to improve in different areas of their lives or contributes to the feeling of inadequacy?
- Do you think that pursuing a successful career and thriving family life are mutually exclusive? Why (not)? Provide arguments.
- What strategies and techniques do effective admen use to market their products? Give a few examples.
- It is easy to become trapped in an endless treadmill of attaining one's goals, which is supposed to lead to true happiness. Do you agree? Explain.
- What can provide a morale booster to a team of co-workers, friends, family members, or neighbours? Are these boosters the same for each type of relationship, or do they differ?

- How can spousal conflicts be best resolved? What are some common issues married couples face in their relationships today?
- What kind of media content do you find disturbing as a viewer? Should there be any regulations regarding what should and what should not be presented to the public?
- Some people say they only experience moments of contentment and blissful times because happiness is a temporary, not a permanent state. Do you agree? Why (not)?
- Is there anything you would never resort to doing to ensure that the people you love are safe, secure, healthy, and happy? Give examples and provide an explanation.
- Having been given what they wished for, people often feel their satisfaction is much lesser than expected. What do you think is at the core of the problem with attaining true happiness?
