

Table of Contents

Preface	1
CHAPTER I
PERSPECTIVES ON FL WRITING.....	3
Jan Zalewski
Beyond foreign language writing instruction: The need for literacy pedagogy	5
Miroslaw Pawlak
Text reconstruction activities and teaching language forms	21
Monika Kusiak
Developing a creative foreign language reader: in search of a theoretical approach and didactic techniques.....	41
Lukasz Salski
The dynamic model of writing and its implications for the FL classroom...	53
Pawel Scheffler and Marcin Cinciala
Explicit vs. implicit L2 grammar knowledge in written error correction.....	61
CHAPTER II
RESEARCHING FL WRITING.....	79
Marion Colledge
Supporting EU, home and foreign students in London writing final year undergraduate BA English language studies dissertations.....	81
Mira Bekar
Self-reported problems of L1 and L2 college writers: what can writing instructors do?.....	97
Malgorzata Adams-Tukiendorf
Why do less creative student writers write longer texts?.....	125
Damian Picz
Certificate of proficiency in English course evaluation and students' preparation to writing in real-life situations – descriptive study.....	145
Przemyslaw Krakowian
Investigating the native speaker phenomenon – a pilot corpus study of native and non-native writing.....	175

CHAPTER III TEACHING FL WRITING.....	185
Ann Mott Turning classroom environments into centers of writing	187
Krzysztof Majer In the beginning, there was the sentence: a few remarks on a literary approach to writing classes	197
Agata Klimczak Genre approach to teaching formal letter writing	205
Anna Parr-Modrzejewska and Patrycja Ostrogska The joy of writing – teach, practice, inspire!.....	213
Katarzyna Chojnacka and Łukasz Salski Authentic writing in the (foreign language) classroom – contradictory or doable?.....	225
List of Contributors.....	233